A proper understanding of the racing rules is crucial to success on the water and there is no better person to guide you through the latest rules than Bryan Willis. Bryan has been chairman of the jury and chief umpire for some of the most prestigious sailing events in the world, including the America's Cup and Olympics. He has served on International Sailing Federation (ISAF) Racing Rules Committee for over 25 years. Who better to explain how to put the rules into practice?

Sailors are taken through a wide range of scenarios that occur on the racecourse with a clear explanation of what rule applies and how they should be interpreted. It summarises what you may, must, or cannot do. Armed with this information, you have the confidence to exploit your rights to the full, on the water and in the protest room. Colour diagrams make everything crystal clear.

As well as going through the latest rules changes for 2013-2016, Bryan also guides you through the knowledge needed to come out at the front of the fleet at every stage of the race and every mark.
